Over Here, Molly Pitcher! is a dramatic presentation highlighting the lives of women who "belonged to the army" during the American Revolution. "Molly" reminisces about the days when she accompanied her husband through summer battles and winter encampments from Valley Forge to Monmouth to Morristown. Relating her tales of firing a cannon in the heat of battle to trudging "behind the baggage," she provides a glimpse into what it was like to be a "camp follower" in the days when American Independence was a dream rather than a certainty.

Stacy F. Roth is an interpreter, museum educator, historian, and information specialist who has performed and presented for museums, libraries, schools, civic organizations, and festivals throughout the Delaware Valley. Stacy is a popular speaker with the New Jersey Council for the Humanities and holds a BA in History from Kean College of NJ, an MA in American Civilization from the University of Pennsylvania, and an MLS from Rutgers. Stacy is also the author of Past Into Present: Effective Techniques for First-Person Historical Interpretation, University of North Carolina Press, 1998.

This program is offered through the Horizons Speakers Bureau of the New Jersey Council for the Humanities, a state partner of the
